

Name: _____ Class: _____ Date: _____

ID: A

INR 2002H Quiz 4

True/False

Indicate whether the statement is true (A) or false (B). (5 points each)

- _____ 1. The terms gender and sex may be used interchangeably.
- _____ 2. The three main schools of feminist theory: feminist empiricism, feminist standpoint theory, and feminist postmodernism.
- _____ 3. Constructivists tend to discount the importance of norms in international politics.
- _____ 4. In Marxist jargon, the owners of capital are called the bourgeoisie.
- _____ 5. In Marxist jargon, the working class is called the proletariat.
- _____ 6. According to Marxist thinkers, the only real capital is coined money.
- _____ 7. According to your textbook, Venezuela and Bolivia are two examples of states in Latin America that have rejected Marxist theories in favor of a more capitalist foundation in their politics.
- _____ 8. According to Marx, surplus value always ends up benefiting the proletariat.
- _____ 9. Constructivists hold that a person or state's identity is fixed and cannot change.
- _____ 10. Constructivists hold that interests are fixed and cannot change because they are naturally determined
- _____ 11. Feminist definitions of power are surprisingly similar to realist conceptions of power.
- _____ 12. The central actor or level of analysis in feminism is the state.
- _____ 13. The central actor or level of analysis in constructivism is the individual.
- _____ 14. The central actors or levels of analysis in Marxism are the state and substate.
- _____ 15. Mainstream international relations theory has incorporated feminist thought to such a degree as to place it on the same level of influence as realism, liberalism, and Marxism.
- _____ 16. Marxism is as widely studied and practiced as an IR theory today as it was during the Cold War.